

Episode Two Exams and Valentine's Day

Description: Cooper and Nana are in a coffee shop preparing for a class presentation. It is Feb. 14.

Cooper: We're almost done. We'll be able to print them out later.

Nana: Thank you so much for your help. I wouldn't be able to finish this by myself.

Cooper: You're welcome. You've collected so much information. It covers so many things.

Nana: My Chinese is not good enough. If it wasn't for you, I probably wouldn't be able to finish all of this for my presentation tomorrow.

Cooper: Don't worry. We're almost done. Let's do this!

(After a while...)

Cooper: Okay, we're done!

Nana: Wow, that's fabulous! Even your PowerPoint presentation is easy to understand!

Cooper: Good luck on your presentation tomorrow.

Nana: Oh, Cooper, before I forget... This is for you. (Takes something out from her bag.)

Cooper: Hm? Is this a gift? Is it because today's Valentine's Day?

Nana (smiling): Well, isn't the Chinese Valentine's Day on the 7th day of the 7th month of the Lunar Calendar?

Cooper (smiling shyly): Yes, that is correct.

Nana: Come on, it's just a simple gift. Please accept it.

Cooper: Thank you. Actually, I also have a gift I want to give to you.

Nana: Oh, really?

Cooper: This is something I bought when I went traveling last week. Take a look inside.

Nana (opens the gift): Wow. These are gorgeous earrings. Thank you so much!

