

Episode Eight Typhoon Night

Description: At Cooper and May's house. May and Nana are chatting, while Cooper, Dean, and Andy are playing online games.

Nana: It's getting windier and raining harder outside. It's so scary!

May: Is this your first typhoon experience?

Nana: Yes. Last year when the typhoons came, I was not in Taiwan.

Cooper: Okay, well, not to worry. I've got a huge box of instant noodles. We've also got candles, flashlights, batteries....

May: And we've got a radio too. We can find out the location of the typhoon, and whether we'll have class tomorrow.

Nana: Oh, no! The power is out!

Andy: Argh... I'm just about to break my record! The power went out!

Cooper: I'll look for our flashlights.

May: I'll light the candles.

Andy: I remember when I was a kid, I found typhoons incredibly fun because we got to light candles, eat snacks, and stay up late. But in truth, typhoons really are disastrous.

May: Yes. Once the wind and rain get too strong, the crops will be the first to be damaged.

Andy: All that rain can trigger landslides too!

Nana: Landslides! Wouldn't that threaten the lives of people living near the mountains?

May: Yes, it would.

Dean: Oh, Doug and his tribe live in the mountains. I am so worried about them.

Nana: I hope this typhoon won't cause too much damage.

Cooper: Well, let's turn on the radio and listen to the latest on the typhoon.
